

- 18 The resistance of an electric filament lamp is far greater at its working temperature than when cold.

Which statement explains this?

- A Fewer conduction electrons are available at higher temperatures.
- B Ionic vibrations within the filament are greater at higher temperatures.
- C The emission of light absorbs electrical energy.
- D The length of the filament increases with temperature.