

- 15 A system of two masses connected by a compressed spring, is held at rest on a horizontal, frictionless surface.

One of the masses is released at time 0 s and after a while at time t the second mass is released. The separation of the masses increases and then decreases.

What is a possible variation of momentum of the system with time?

