

39. Answer: A

D is wrong as it has an even proton number of 6.

Since neutron number = nucleon number – proton number, only A will have an odd neutron number, i.e. neutron number of $N = 14 - 7 = 7$. B and C have even neutron numbers of 8 and 6 respectively.