

Answer: C

35 White light is diffracted to give a coloured spectrum.

Sodium vapour absorbs photons which excite atoms to higher energy levels. During de-excitation of the atoms, the photons are emitted in all directions. Hence discrete dark lines on a coloured background is observed.

Answer: C

36 The initial uncertainties in position and momentum at the slit are required. The position