

12. Answer: B

Since the container is perfectly insulated, no heat is supplied or lost, thus $Q = 0$.

By the first law of thermodynamics, $\Delta U = W + Q$, the increase in internal energy ΔU (from the increase in temperature) is equal to the work done W on the system.