

| No. | Answer | Solution                                                                                    |
|-----|--------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 22  | A      | P is a diode which will allow a current to pass through in one direction and not the other. |
| 23  | C      | The electric force on a negative charge at a point is opposite to the                       |