

		directions.
6	D	As the horizontal component of velocity is more dominant initially as vertical component is zero, the shape of graph is horizontal initially. As vertical component starts to increase due to acceleration of free fall, the overall speed of the object starts to increase with time (in the absence of air resistance).
7	A	According to examiners, this question creates the most confusion among