

29

D

Intensity

$$I = \frac{P}{A} = \frac{\frac{E}{t}}{A} = \frac{\frac{N}{t}hf}{A}$$

Since frequency remains the same, greater intensity implies greater $\frac{N}{t}$, which is the number of photons passing through unit cross-sectional area of the beam per unit time.