

|          |          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|----------|----------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|          |          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| 6 | A | When <math>P</math> is below maximum value of <math>f</math>, there is no net force and <math>a</math> is 0. When <math>P</math> is above maximum value of <math>f</math>, there is acceleration. According to N's 2nd law, $P - f = ma$ $a = \frac{P}{m} - \frac{f}{m}$ <math>a \propto P</math> since <math>f</math> and <math>m</math> is constant. |
| 7 | D | To describe the effect on the object, we need to identify the forces acting on the                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |